INGREDIENTS OF GOOD CLEAR STYLE

Some printing errors in Dr. Wilson's article in the January issue were missed. They are as follows:

Page 135, para. 3, line 3: insert "that" after "clear".

Page 135, para. 4, line 5: for "whose" read "whom".

Page 138, line 3. The sentence should read: In addition there is a difference of focus, in that (a) rather stresses the disciples' action over its reason, and (b) stresses the reason for the prohibition over the prohibition itself.

Page 138, line 28, and page 144, line 13: for "ablative absolute" read "genitive absolute".

We apologize to Dr. Wilson and to readers for the inconvenience caused.
